

...ssage, of Bethel, say their therapy can help maintain good health.

...treel dancers, for example. Who else might want a Nurturing Massage? People seeking to: take increased responsibility for building their own health; enhance their gratitude for the only body they'll ever have; and in dealing with grief and loss; prepare for an athletic event or recover from the effects of strenuous activity; relieve pain and stiffness; increase range of motion and flexibility.

Fran and Kathleen are committed to make massages more available. They offer a special low rate to Bethel area residents with their recently introduced (one-A-Month Club). Also, they teach the art of giving and receiving a Nurturing Massage. About this, Fran remarks, "I'd like to see families and friends doing massage together. I've seen it solve communication difficulties when words failed. With the amount of respect, dignity and integrity given the body in massage, it's a furthering of our personal commitment to be good to one another." Their next Nurturing Massage workshop in the Bethel area is April 22, 23 and 24.

Fran has been living and working in the Bethel area for the past five years; Kathleen, a Maine native, has been here since their marriage two years ago. They make their home in Woodstock (in a cabin a mile walk in the woods), a setting of serenity which supports their health and their work. You may reach them at their Bethel office in the Post Office building on Main Street (824-2210) or at their newly opened office at 142 High St. (Suite 411) in Portland, at which office they will be doing Nurturing Massage on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

To the Editor:

The Greater Waterford Sacred Singers as they are called for now! rehearses from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, at the Congregational Church (on Plummer Hill Road, next to the Wilkins House and behind the Lake House) in Waterford. This group was organized for the purpose of spreading God's word through music and will perform, by request, at churches, hospitals, nursing homes, religious gatherings or any other place that music of this nature would be appropriate. This is a non-profit group funded by donations. Participation is open to anyone from anywhere regardless of expertise. The only requirements are a desire to sign, an interest in music ministries and a commitment to attend rehearsals.

We need an accompanist and an alternate accompanist. These people should be comfortable with sight-reading. Come on out and join us. We'd love to have you, and you'll enjoy the experience. No need to call ahead; just come out. However, if you need or want more information, call me, at 583-4191 (evenings or weekends).

ed about my background. After completing two years of college, I have found no problems in areas like English, History or Social Studies. My only difficulties have come in Math.

"The teachers were very encouraging and helpful my senior year. They gave me a lot of support and credited me for my improvement; which helped me to make important career decisions."

"I am very satisfied with the education I received at TRHS. The faculty and staff added so much to the curriculum and I am happy to have been a student at Telstar."

"Some sort of incentive program [could] have been helpful to my classmates, to draw their attention to classes they believed were beyond their capabilities. Also, more programs like Career Week would have been extremely helpful to experience a wide variety of occupations. Making a career choice is difficult, but can be easier when a person knows what the different occupations entail."

"Need more basic and less easy, way-out mini courses."

"The Advanced Placement program was a great benefit to me. Also, Dan Hart's contribution to students' futures is a wonderful asset to Telstar. Another thing, Tim O'Connor is going to be a great shot in the arm to the woods and metals programs."

"I feel that more emphasis should be placed on English grammar."

"Personally, I feel that Math is a weak point at Telstar. Especially for the kids who have a hard time with it, including me."

"Mr. Hart did an outstanding job as a guidance counselor when I attended Telstar. He was genuinely concerned with my future plans and that made it a lot easier for me when I was a senior. I also enjoyed taking Mr. Kersey's science classes. He makes them fun and interesting."

"I wish I had learned more in English, like essay writing and grammar."

"You could have more teachers like Mr. Abbott, Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Domkowski, Mr. Morton, Mr. Roy and others. Mrs. Kersey and Miss Holt were the ones that helped me most in the end."

"I do not think Telstar had enough effort and encouragement in the arts (Drama, Band, Chorus, Art). There are a few exceptions who have made an effort (Harry Davis, Suzanne Taylor, Gemma Dreher, Tim Kavanagh, Marilyn Ackley), but against a purely anti-art school."

"Allow more freedom in class choices. A student in college prep courses should be able to take vocational courses and vice versa. Too much categorizing of students makes them feel stifled—like a number."

The respondents overwhelmingly felt their teachers were willing to help them outside class time. However, only 15 percent credited teachers with helping them in their schooling or career choices.

Another 15 percent said the guidance counselor was most responsible for helping them choose what to do after graduation. The majority received help from family, friends, employer or co-workers.

offices would be provided by bottled water dispensers.

He added, however, that he was considering discussing with the selectmen the possibility of drilling a well on town property uphill from the former school building. The well would provide a water supply for the new offices the town is constructing in the building and for his own office building.

Mr. Cyr said that he would be willing to pay the full cost of drilling the well, in return for the right to use water from it.

The board also approved another permit for Mr. Cyr to build a home on a site at the corner of Cemetery and Poplar roads near Mt. Abram, and they approved the following construction permits:

Cecil and Lemp Heath, to convert a shed to a room at their residence on Young Hill Road; Caroline Roberts, to construct an addition to an existing home on Rowe Hill; Eddie Deegan, to add a storage shed to an existing building on Howe Hill Road; Anna Swan, to build an out-building behind her residence on the Greenwood Road; Lucy Bragg and Kathy Curtis, to build an addition to a residence on the Greenwood Road.

The board also approved an application from J. Walter Brough, of Medway, Mass., for the enlargement of a camp on Howe Hill Road. The design submitted with the application by Mr. Brough did not meet the minimum setback requirements; however, the board telephoned Mr. Brough at his home and he agreed to change the plan to comply with the set-back requirement.

While Mr. Timberlake was at the meeting, he suggested the board schedule a time to meet with him regarding a number of ongoing code violations in town. Board Chairman Harry Swan said the session would probably be scheduled for a regular board meeting.

The selectmen took no action on a request by the Backstage Restaurant to erect a directional sign on Main Street indicating where Summer Street is—the location of the restaurant. Owner/Manager Chuck O'Connell told the selectmen by letter that out-of-town, and even local customers, have no idea where Summer Street is and therefore have trouble finding the restaurant. The problem is compounded by the fact that there is no street sign on Summer Street itself.

The selectmen were opposed to the idea of having a directional sign, saying it would lead to additional confusion. They suggested the restaurant work with the state Department of Transportation to have a DOT sign placed on Railroad Street with an arrow indicating the way to the restaurant.

The town manager said he is trying to find a Summer Street street sign in the highway department's inventory and will have it erected at the street if it is found. The selectmen said if such a sign cannot be found, the town should allow the restaurant to purchase one; the town crew will then put it in place.

The selectmen received bids from two local contractors on renovating the office next to The Citizen office as a selectmen's meeting room. Peter Kuzik bid $12,232, while George Olson bid $23,255. The town manager cautioned the selectmen to examine the bids carefully since they might not be exactly comparable, and either or both might not include everything the selectmen wanted done in the room.

Mt. Abram employed an average of 60 people during the season, and 10 to 12 permanent employees will stay on through the summer.

Looking ahead, Ms. Anton said the skiway will invest approximately $1.5 million in improvements before it re-opens next fall.

The major project for the summer will be a 3,000 foot triple chairlift. The base of the lift will be located approximately 1,500 feet up Howe Hill Road from the current main lodge.

The lift will take skiers to the top of four new intermediate trails, most of which have already been cut. All the new trails will have man-made snowmaking coverage, Ms. Anton said.

In addition to the lift, a new snowmaking pond and six to 18 trailside condos are scheduled to be ready by the beginning of next season.

Selectmen want say

a good product."

Of the latter sort of complaint was Woodstock Selectman Gary Wing, commenting on last week's Outward Bound trip for sophomores at Telstar: "They're not going to learn out in the woods."

Most of the selectmen at the meeting agreed that salaries of faculty and administrators were too high. "The trouble with the schools is the teachers want a year's salary for 180 days of work," said Bethel Selectman Arthur Gilbert.

And Bethel Selectman Pat Doonan said she had been hearing negative comments from local residents regarding school salaries.

Selectman Dunham complained about new administrative positions being created. "You've got to put a harness on that outfit," he said.

"We're always sacrificing roads because of the school budget," Selectman Hooper said. And to buttress his belief that salaries were too high, he offered the information that 90 percent of the lakefront property transfers in Woodstock involved educators.

Mr. Hooper did say, however, that the cut district voters made in the school budget two years ago has had an impact. "I do see improvement up there [at the school district office]," he said.

Among other shared concerns, the selectmen touched on development—and ways of coping with it—and the need for affordable housing. Selectmen Dunham and Hooper thought the slowdown in development might eventually solve the affordable housing dilemma. They agreed that the condo market was overbuilt and might someday become low-income housing.

MSAD #44

Superintendent's Newsletter

Dewaine B. Craig

At this time of the year many homeowners are very aware of local community and school budgets in addition to their own. Each person's budget is affected by the voter-approved budget in their community. Each community budget is affected by the need to pay for community, school and county services. During the '80s the cost of services provided by communities, schools and the county have risen sharply, while the revenue to support the same services has steadily declined at the state and federal levels.

Now, and over the next two weeks, I will try to provide you with an overview of the budget process in place at SAD #44.

In today's Part I, I will outline the process from November to the annual budget meeting in April. Part II, next week, will detail the budget-building process from items being requested to the final school board budget vote. Part III will detail the process of the annual meeting, scheduled this year for Monday, April 25, at 7 p.m. in the Telstar auditorium.

The budget-building process: In November the central office staff meets with the school board to complete the budget building time frames. Cost projects in the areas of negotiated contracts for staff, yearly service contracts, fuels, electricity, etc., are prepared in the central office.

In December supervisors and principals gather requests for budget items from their staff and submit them to the superintendent's office.

In January the superintendent reviews the requests. (This year a change was interjected to this step.) Years prior to this year, the superintendent made dollar and cent reductions and returned them for review. This year the board asked to see the draft budget before the superintendent's imposed reductions were sent to the supervisors and principals. The first draft of revenues is detailed by the superintendent's office at this time and presented to the school board.

In January and February the superintendent presents the draft budget to the full school board in work sessions. During these two months, adjustments are requested by the school board. The superintendent, with the advice of supervisors and principals, completes the reduction details to the budget. During the past four years, these public work sessions have taken three to seven meetings to complete the final budget.

In late February or early March, the board, in an open meeting, votes on the gross budget and the subsequent budget warrant articles.

In March the superintendent's office coordinates the contents of the Annual Report to be printed in mid-March. In April the school board sets the date and time for the Annual Meeting. Recently the district has held its annual budget meeting in mid- to late-April.

Norway-South Paris transfer station may be home for Bethel's trash

The landfill operator at Norridgewock is holding discussions with the Norway-Paris Solid Waste Board to take over operation of the Norway-South Paris transfer station. Should this come to pass, the new operator would want to collect more trash at that site to ship to the landfill at Norridgewock. Bethel's solid waste could help fill up the containers.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch reported to the Board of Selectmen Monday night on discussions he has been holding with an official from Consolidated Waste Management System, of Norridgewock—the operator of the commercial landfill and recycling site in that town. According to Mr. Lynch, the landfill company will invite other communities in western Maine to truck their trash to the Norway-South Paris transfer station if and when Consolidated becomes the operator of that station.

In addition, Consolidated has requested permission to expand its landfill operation at Norridgewock. Currently, Mr. Lynch reported, the site is accepting half its input from Maine generators of waste and half from out of state. If the expansion is approved, he said, Consolidated intends to restrict out-of-state waste to 33 percent of the input, reserving two-thirds of the space for Maine waste.

MUNDT-ALLEN MEETS
The regular meeting of the Mundt-Allen Post and Unit, American Legion and Auxiliary, will be Tuesday, April 12, preceded by a 6:30 potluck supper.

SNOWTWISTERS TO MEET

Bethel Snowtwisters will hold their last meeting of the season Tuesday, April 13, at 7 p.m., at the Casco Bank. All bills have to be turned in at that time.

In May and June, once the annual budget meeting has been completed, all offices add purchase order generation to their normal hectic spring schedule. Next week we will review in Part II the details the administration and board take in building the yearly budget.

Past President Eleanor Nelson presided as President Hilfred Safford could not be present due to illness.

The applications for membership were received and plans were made for initiation at our next meeting.

It was voted to assist the work of the Boy Scout Troop recently formed in the

Through the years Memorial Day has been supported here, for in Civil War times Stoneham sent more men into service than they had voters at that time.

Preparation was made for degree work at our April meeting.

Eleanor Nelson, Eloise Vail and Doreen Shugars served delicious refreshments after the meeting.

What a lovely morning it has turned out to be! We have enjoyed the warm weather lately and bet everyone else has, too. It really seems as though spring has sprung. When I went for a short walk the other day I saw many trees budding, the water was running down the ditch and flowing into the culverts under the road and forming small streams winding their way down through the woods on the lower side of the road. A lovely sight to see. Haven't seen any robins as yet or heard any, but a friend said she has seen and heard quite a few.

It has seemed strange this year not to see any Juncos as usual. We had Purple Finch the other morning and he was a real pretty fellow. However, he is the only one of those that I have seen. We don't have so many squirrels now and that is a sure sign of spring. The grey squirrels stop coming for food when they can get it outside. We have a few that still visit but not as many.

One thing is for sure, the snow has certainly vanished fast in the past week. The fog last weekend really took the snow off and the warm weather has kept it vanishing.

My daughter-in-law, Viola Whitman, took me to North Bridgton last Friday to see Dr. Shedd. Dr. Jealous had been away teaching so had my appointment with Dr. Shedd instead of him.

Saturday morning, Russell and I went to town to do some errands and get some groceries. We called at the Farmer's Union in South Paris, went to Ames to get a few items and then to Sears and Shop and Save. By that time we were ready to come home and it was nearer dinner time than either of us had thought. In the afternoon, I went to Ray's Place in Oxford with Grace to see if either of us could find some shoes but didn't have any luck.

Sunday Michael and Kariann came to get Russell and me to come down to dinner. Wynona had called on Saturday and asked us to come down. I made macaroni and cheese to take as everyone likes it so well. We had a nice dinner and in the afternoon, we went with Wynona and Mike to the "Y" where Wynona and the girls went swimming. Courtney is taking lessons so Nonie likes to take her on Sunday to practice what she learned on Saturday. Kariann has learned to like the water as long as she is hanging onto her mother's hands. It was fun to watch them having such a good time in the water. Wynona and the girls brought us home after the fun.

We were surprised but pleased Monday morning to have the State road men come and put some tar fill into the driveway. There has been such a dip into the road that my car dragged its tailpipe every time we went out or in. Russell had written them and they had come to look the situation over. What a big help it is to have that taken care of. A big thank-you to them for a job well done.

Viola took me to see Dr. Jealous on Tuesday and there were a couple of ladies there waiting and they had ferrets in their arms. They were rather cute and were on leashes and the ladies said they were litter box trained. One never knows what they will see next.

Russell has been cutting brush and cleaning up around what he can. Yesterday, he decided to put some sawdust into the yard to see if it will help keep cars from sinking in quite so much. When Viola was here the other day and turned around, she sank in a little too far and her wheels spun a little. Made the yard a mess, too.

The movie is sponsored by the Middle School Student Council, which will also sponsor its second annual book fair April 13-27. Books will be on sale at Telstar during the midday study. Also, the book fair will be available on the night of the Middle School play, Wednesday, April 13, 6-8 p.m.

The Middle School is also sponsoring a crystal sale, which will last for a week April 8-15. Monies raised from this will be used to buy needed equipment for the Middle School.

Russell has also been working on his cold frame and has it ready to put plants into. Planted some seeds last Saturday and Sunday morning and they are already coming up. He has some new articles to plant them in this year. I don't know just what they are called but are very different than anything he has used before. He was surprised and so was I when he said they were already coming up and it hasn't been even a week. The trays have what I will call spots to plant the seeds and they are only about an inch across them and came filled with soil to plant in. It will be most interesting to see if the seeds do better in them than before.

The road crew are doing quite a job cutting trees and bushes alongside the road on High Street towards South Paris. There are quite a few trees cut up and the wood piled up side of the road. It should make the road lighter and let the sun in to dry it up better.

We expect Peggy home today. She landed in Maine yesterday and her daughter, Myrna, and husband, Bernard White, met her at Portland. She stayed overnight with them and comes home to see Myrna and Bernard spent the winter in Arizona. Weekly letters keep one in touch but there are still lots of things left to talk about. Peggy said she had a good flight home. I am sure she has enjoyed her visit in Florida with her family members.

I don't know what strain of bug has been around this year but whatever it is it is a stubborn one. Colds and flu still keep folks sick and we all hope each day will see the end of our colds and cough but they sure hang on. Guess all we can do is keep hoping it will soon disappear, especially now with this warm weather. I hate keeping Russell awake as well as myself with coughing but can't seem to help it. All the cough syrups haven't helped and just when one thinks they are getting better, it comes back again. Hope others have had better luck.

We are supposed to help out with Past Lecturers night at West Paris on April 7 and are still hoping we can do it. We have missed Grange this winter because of storm in January and illness in February and March. Hope the rest of the year will be better. Hope no one gets fooled tomorrow on April Fool's Day. Don't seem possible that it is here but it is and maybe the flu bugs will get lost. We all hope so. Take care and have a good week.

KEEP US IN MIND

It's that time of year when your local Rotary Club must start gathering items for our annual auction. The proceeds of all of our efforts go to support such projects as the Senior Citizen Christmas Dinner, Christmas Food Baskets for the needy, student scholarships, support of the local health facilities, summer camp tuition, area athletes expenses, disabled individuals needs, etc. If you're cleaning the garage, attic, or cellar, let us get rid of those unwanted items for you. Call Roger Conant, 824-2131 or 824-2269, for pickup. Help us with your support of our projects. It's a good feeling!

North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

Harlan Abbott, James Abbott and Joseph Vatcher attended the sportman's show at the Augusta Civic Center on March 27. Faye stayed to spend the day with her mother, Honey Newton, at Mechanic Falls, as her father Earl and her brother and his two sons also went to the show. They enjoyed it all and it made for a lot of walking. Harlan, Jim and Joe ate supper at Bonanza in Augusta and Eveline could imagine their salad bowls.

On Palm Sunday, March 27, Kathy Littlehale Parsons sang "The Palmers" as a solo. She and her husband Michael and son Donald attended the morning service at the North Paris Federated Church. Kathy has sung this as a solo many times on Palm Sunday and she uses her voice so effectively and beautifully. Her mother, Charlotte, accompanied her. Forest Stowell gave the call to worship; Becky Gidding had responsive reading and Ken Gidding gave the call to offering. Harry Perkins rings the bell every Sunday morning and it is unique to hear the sound as it rings out over the hills of North Paris, calling people to worship.

Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Isley and son Rob Jr., in the Netherlands, have finally moved into an apartment and the Mrs. has a job on the base at a day care place. Food prices are much different there than in USA. Robert Sr., thinks he should go to school to learn the Dutch language. He might as well if he plans to stay for four years.

Callers at Lawrence's: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penley Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Ellen Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Richard Felt, Bertha Benoit.

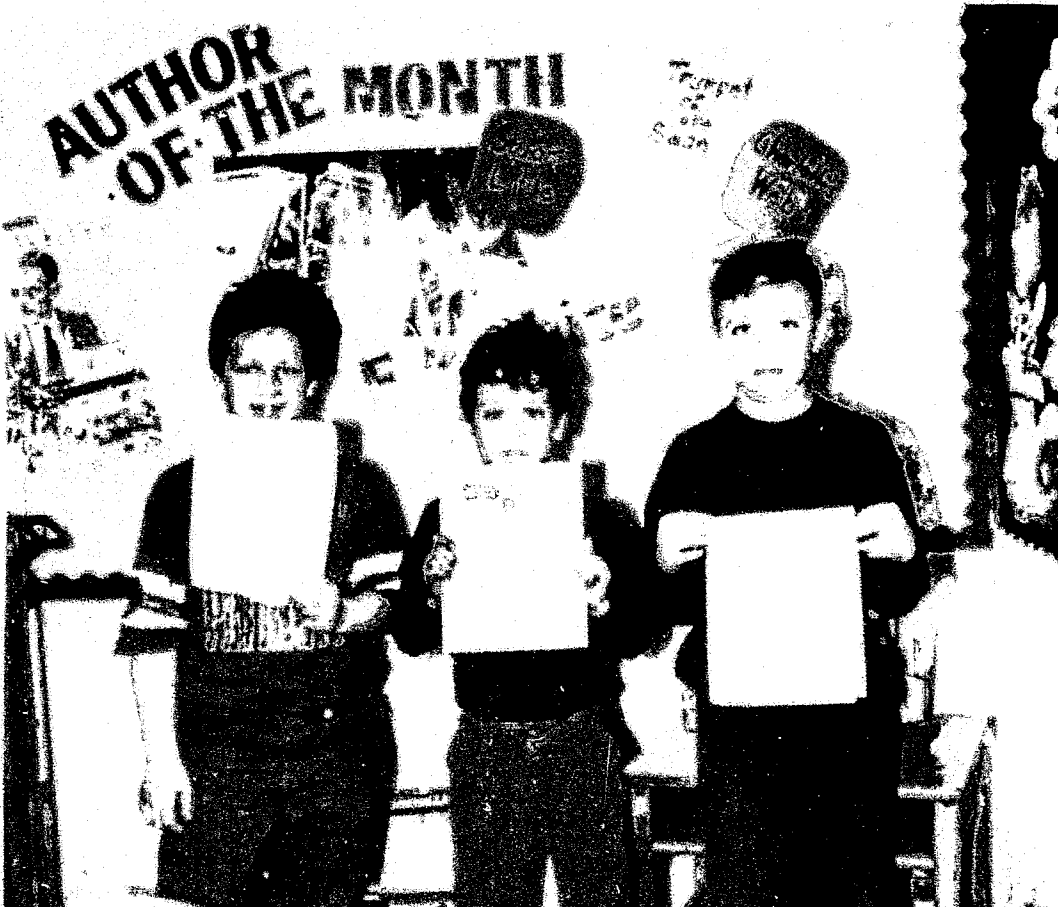

Joe Vatcher and Harlan Abbott attended the Fish and Game meeting at South Paris March 30.

The West Paris Fire Department was in our little hamlet for a grass fire on the Trask farm. Duane had a fire and it got out of control.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lyons had a new septic system installed this week. Hope everyone got to church on time Easter Sunday and put the correct postage on all letters.

It is nice to look out the window and see the lawn all bare even if it is brown. It will soon be green and time for the lawn mower.

Several major events have taken place this past week. The 2nd-graders had a beautiful day for their trip to the Norlands. The weather held over for the 5th-graders' annual trip to Boston. Both of these trips result from our studies of the history of our country. The week also began with an entertaining historical presentation, "Young Abe Lincoln," performed by the Robin Hood Players.

Mrs. Judith Loper, Grade 3 teacher, has just completed an exciting three-day workshop sponsored by SAD #17. Mrs. Sally Logan presented this math approach, called DPA (Diagnostic Prescriptive Arithmetic). This program deals with learning the basic math operations with concrete, manipulative materials, which is a big help for young children who are learning what math is all about.

The Kindergarten and 1st Grade children enjoyed their visit from the Easter Bunny. Jelly beans were found in all sorts of strange places.

We are at the end of the third ranking period. Parents should be on the lookout for conference slips the first of next week. Rank cards will be coming home on the 15th—the Friday before April vacation. Parent conferences will be held the Monday after vacation, April 25, from 12 noon until 8 p.m. Please mark these dates on your calendars.

The R.I.F. (Reading is Fundamental) readathon for Grades K-4 is getting underway. Announcements have been sent home and we hope all who are interested participate.

Our annual spring book fair will begin on April 13 and be held over for two days after vacation. There should be a great selection and this might be a good time to stock up on summer reading.

News from

By DIXIE INMAN

On Monday, March 28, the 3rd and 4th-graders visited the planetarium at the University of Maine, in Gorham. The bus left at 8 a.m. and returned at 3:30 p.m. A good time was had by all the children, chaperones and teachers.

Grade 1 has been busy. During Social Studies class they have been learning about communities and people within them. On Monday during their Social Studies class the children wore their costumes or uniforms they planned at home. Several nurses, doctors, postal workers, and firemen were seen in the class.

Grade 1 also had their green thumbs busy, planting flowers and vegetables in their mini-greenhouses. Each child is anxiously awaiting the first sign of a sprout to appear.

The 1988 Elementary Music Festival will take place Wednesday, April 6, at the Falmouth Middle School/High School.

Grade 6 students from both Woodstock School and Andover Elementary School will be bused to this event, accompanied by Mrs. Liz Smith, our music teacher. Students will leave WES at 1 p.m. and arrive at the Falmouth school by 2:30 p.m. Throughout the afternoon students will be in rehearsals with other schools attending the festival. The evening concert will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The WES group will leave Falmouth at 7:30 p.m. and return to Woodstock by 9 p.m.

Arla Patch reports the Honduras Art Exchange is nearing completion. Just over $100 was collected from all four elementary schools. This has been spent on paper, paint and pastels, which will be sent to the children in Honduras next week. Everyone is invited to come view our students' paintings and drawings, which will be on display in the Bethel town office windows from April 6 to 13.

The Grade 6 chess tournament is underway. Students will play games and compete against each other until a chess master is determined through double elimination rounds.

SAD #4 Grade 4 students have again been invited to attend the Shrine Circus.

Woodstock School

By DIXIE INMAN

On Monday, March 28, the 3rd and 4th-graders visited the planetarium at the University of Maine, in Gorham. The bus left at 8 a.m. and returned at 3:30 p.m. A good time was had by all the children, chaperones and teachers.

Grade 1 has been busy. During Social Studies class they have been learning about communities and people within them. On Monday during their Social Studies class the children wore their costumes or uniforms they planned at home. Several nurses, doctors, postal workers, and firemen were seen in the class.

Grade 1 also had their green thumbs busy, planting flowers and vegetables in their mini-greenhouses. Each child is anxiously awaiting the first sign of a sprout to appear.

The 1988 Elementary Music Festival will take place Wednesday, April 6, at the Falmouth Middle School/High School.

Grade 6 students from both Woodstock School and Andover Elementary School will be bused to this event, accompanied by Mrs. Liz Smith, our music teacher. Students will leave WES at 1 p.m. and arrive at the Falmouth school by 2:30 p.m. Throughout the afternoon students will be in rehearsals with other schools attending the festival. The evening concert will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The WES group will leave Falmouth at 7:30 p.m. and return to Woodstock by 9 p.m.

Arla Patch reports the Honduras Art Exchange is nearing completion. Just over $100 was collected from all four elementary schools. This has been spent on paper, paint and pastels, which will be sent to the children in Honduras next week. Everyone is invited to come view our students' paintings and drawings, which will be on display in the Bethel town office windows from April 8 to 13.

The Grade 6 chess tournament is underway. Students will play games and compete against each other until a chess master is determined through double elimination rounds.

SAD #44 Grade 4 students have again been invited to attend the Shrine Circus,

News from Adult Education

GED Preparation is on-going at the various Learning Centers of SAD #44 Adult and Community Education. Several individuals are working on preparation for the actual test, which is given by appointment at the Adult Education office. The GED test has undergone extensive revision and the new tests were introduced in Maine in January.

The SAD #44 program has been using preparation materials specifically designed for the new tests since fall and the students and instructors are making use of a variety of preparation materials including workbooks, computer software and video tapes. The video series is available for students to borrow for home use. Anyone who would like to find out more about high school completion options for adults should call the Adult Education office, 824-2780, and talk with Cathy Newell, director of Adult and Community Education, or Merrill Bittner, counselor.

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will offer a selection of summer courses, starting after July 4. Mrs. Newell would like to have suggestions for courses, and may be contacted at 824-2780. The summer courses offered in 1987 were held on Wednesday nights and proved to be popular. GED preparation and individualized work in reading and math will be offered.

which will be held in Lewiston on Saturday, April 16. Transportation, admission, and supervision will be provided. A bus will pick up Grade 4 students at Bryant Pond Post Office at 7:45 a.m. and return at approximately 2:20 p.m. Return signed permission slips by April 11.

Brownie Leader Chris Heffley reports several boxes of Girl Scout cookies are still available to purchase by contacting her at home. All money must be turned in by April 6.

On April 9, the Walt Disney classic "Lady and the Tramp" will be shown in the Telstar auditorium, sponsored by the Middle School Student Council. The movie will be chaperoned by Telstar teachers. Admission is 50 cents. Refreshments will be sold.

DRESSED UP FOR A TRIP TO THE NORLANDS, Mr. Van Nest's class at Agnes Gray School made a field trip to the colonial farm last week. They dressed in old-fashioned clothes in order to step back in time for a day. When they got there, the boys went out collecting sap with a team of oxen while the girls stayed in the house and cooked on the woodstove and scrubbed clothes on a washboard.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded the monthly meeting will be April 7, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Featured during the program portion of the meeting will be a slide presentation on the history of three Bethel streets: Elm, Summer and Winter. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

Newest life member is Michael S. Stowell, of Lovettville, Va. Mr. Stowell has also provided a generous donation to the 1988 Endowment Campaign in memory of Paul B. Head, who helped him become active in business and the stock market, and in memory of Hazen B. Lowell, who taught him to love farming and the land.

Green Thumb worker Betty Lord has completed the transcription of the records of the Congregational Church of Bethel. These will be of particular interest to genealogists and those who are students of Bethel's past. Green Thumb is a federally supported program that provides employment to qualified persons over 55 years of age. This project has taken several months to complete. These records are now available to researchers in the Society's Eva Bean Research Room.

Spencer Gordon has recently written the Society inquiring about Shaker or Shaker-like furniture for a seminar he is taking. He is looking for pieces of Shaker-like furniture, the mid-level type of "country" furniture that was popular in New England for most of the 19th century, but not Shaker-made. These pieces should have strong documentation, signed and dated or included in written documents, and must retain their original finish. Anyone wishing to communicate with Mr. Gordon regarding these pieces should write him at 116 Mar-dock St., #2, Brighton, Mass 02135, or call him at 617-787-4373.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Executive Director Robin Zinchuk reports:
The Chamber held a breakfast workshop last Wednesday on the Small Business Administration's Guarantee Loan Program. Also discussed was the business counseling services. Nearly 20 attended the very informative session.

The Chamber was given several information packets to hand out from our office, so if you missed the meeting and are interested in the SBA's programs, please stop in. Thanks so much to the Bethel Historical Society for the use of their facilities and also to Becky Kendall for the delicious muffins.

We are coordinating advertising projects in "Exploring Maine" magazine, the Maine Publicity Bureau's late-summer and fall magazine. We will be well represented in it with a full-page, four-color ad and a page of black-and-white display ads. We encourage all businesses to advertise in The Bethel Citizen's summer tourism tabloid, whose deadline is approaching, April 8.

Wende Gray, Bill Barter and I represented our area at Tourism Day in Augusta, last Tuesday. It was exciting to be there speaking with folks from all over the state and also our senators and representatives. Lundy, Swardick and Mackey, the advertising agency hired by the state, unveiled their ad campaign for the summer. Their thrust is to encourage inland and upland travel this summer, as the coast is already busy enough. This should really be a boost to the areas that need the business.

MALE VS FEMALE BASKETBALL THIS SATURDAY AT TELSTAR

The Telstar men's faculty look to be in for a rough night of basketball this Saturday when they face off against the Arkansas Gems—an all-female basketball team.

The Gems are led by Elvera "Peps" Neuman, who averages 36 points per game.

The game, which begins at 6:30, at the Telstar gym, is sponsored by the Bethel Lions Club. The feature attraction will be preceded by a coed game between the 8th-graders and the high school JV's.

Tickets are available at Prim's, Edelweiss, and Telstar, or from any Lions Club member.

The year is really gathering pace. Transformation is in progress. April is here, a treasure house of natural beauty. Nature can't wait to spread all her contents before us. The sun rises early and the mornings are free and still, reminding me of pink pearls. It seems that only yesterday the drifts were piled high in the gardens. Now there are breath-taking views of meadows and mountains. The crocus flowers make rainbows on the lawn and my lilacs are budding. White clouds skid across the sky. I look carefully at the pond to see the changes.

The bees are taking advantage of the subsequent warmth to fill their pollen baskets, those marvelous hollowed out "buckets" on the outside of their hind legs. There are several kinds of bees but the most familiar is the plump, furry, and decorated one with two handsome yellow bands. The bumblebee observed now is a queen for the bumble has a rather sad life cycle—like so many other insects.

The queen has spent the winter hibernating in some snug place, perhaps a tree stump. When she emerges from her winter sleep, she goes about finding some suitable nursery. Eventually, when there are enough blossoms, she makes a cache of honey and pollen in the nest and then lays her eggs, which she has carried all winter; so that when the young hatch, they have a supply of food on hand. There are the worker bumbles, smaller than the queen. Posterity is their only reward, for with the coming of cold weather all males and workers die. Only the newly impregnated queens survive to start the cycle afresh.

April is when I usually see the familiar Painted Lady Butterfly. It occurs in nearly all environments so long as the place is open and brightly lighted. The blue heron will catch my eye one morning winging its steady way across the pond, for it doesn't take long to exploit any new habitat.

Tadpoles will be going through the perilous process of turning into miniature frogs. Frogs—they peep in the night. It's a sound the city lives without, but it can instantly summon a flood of memories to one who has had a country childhood.

And I don't forget the osprey hovering in supreme mastery of the air catching a fish before I can.

Day by day the wild flowers will return opening our eyes to all the floral galaxy that star the earth. I am a prisoner of many Aprils that will not set me free; a painting of hope that is captured forever—and its name is Spring.

This last week in March has given us mixed weather and we have a few more days to go. Who cares; we don't have the floods of last year and the robin is back on my lawn—hopping and listening.

My brother, Fred, and his wife have been in to see me this week and my youngest sister, Lucy Ridley, also made me a visit.

I had dinner with the Holt family on Sunday. Ann Holt, Bethel; David, Sally and Mary Holt, Standish; were also there.

SWOAM MEETS APRIL 14
"How do you go about managing a small woodlot?" will be the subject of the western Maine chapter of Small Woodland Owners Association of Maine (SWOAM) at its next meeting. The meeting will be April 14, at 7 p.m., in Room 113 at the Oxford Hills High School.

It will be a useful and thought-provoking program for those who have recently acquired several acres or more of woods and for longer-term owners, to help them understand how to get the greatest use and enjoyment from their woodlots. All are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Aarne Jarvenpaa, who have been ill, are better.

Fred Curtis was in Lewiston this week to see his doctor. Rena Curtis has been to Portland twice this week to visit her sister who is at the Maine Medical Center; Carl and Betty Curtis went with her. Callers at Fred's were Albert and Marie Curtis, Buckfield; and Ray and Gloria Curtis, Norway.

Slide-tape show at Gould

Jim and Lucia Owen, members of the Gould Academy faculty, will present their slide-tape program "A New England Suite" at Gould's Bingham Auditorium next Thursday, April 14, at 8 p.m.

"A New England Suite" is a full-length performance of dissolving image slides accompanied by stereo sound and consists of a series of sequences about New England life, past and present. Most of the photographs were taken in the Bethel area. The Owens are especially pleased to include a sequence entitled "Distances," which contains photographs of the old meeting house in Middle Intervale. The building was donated to the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society by the descendants of Dr. Timothy Carter and is currently being renovated by the Society. Members and friends of the Society are especially invited to next week's performance.

Recently the Owens were invited to do a series of nine performances of "A New England Suite" in England under the sponsorship of the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain. The Owens submitted sequences from the program to the RPS jury and were elected Fellows in 1980. Two of the sequences, including "Distances," are in the permanent collections of the RPS and the Federation Internationale d'Art Photographique. The Owens have performed "A New England Suite" at schools and colleges in the northeast and are pleased to be performing at Gould.

The performance is open to the public at no charge.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a description of Lorenzo de Medici of Florence:

"He must have been a very great man to be universally known as such—He gave much of his great wealth to encouraging art and literature and made Florence the center of learning—He surrounded himself with some of the most famous sculptors and painters the world has ever known."

Victoria Hall

We understand further study is being done on uses for the old school complex.

The main building, we should note, is in the Italian style, a rare form in Woodstock. Will the voters opt for marked change or historic preservation? You may have the answer.

Here is W. B. Lapham's description of the homes of the early settlers of Woodstock. "They were built of logs and covered with bark, and not much larger than moderate sized stacks of hay, yet it was in these same huts that many of the staunch and representative men of the town were born."

The April Society meeting will feature

Mike Murphy on bird carving.

Recent history from Ruby Emery: "In the past 35 years, 12 buildings in Woodstock have been demolished and six replaced with trailers or houses."

Also, the Historical Society does not espouse any particular denomination, but at Easter season we are reminded of a quote by Charles Spurgeon, "Love is the ivory of Christ." What an elegant and beautiful expression of the season's message.

As I see it...

In a public service ad currently appearing in newspapers across the country, the American people have been told that "After the Declaration of Independence, our Founding Fathers wrote something even more important"—namely, the Constitution.

To speak of the Constitution as "more important" than the Declaration of Independence, however, is like speaking of the heart as more important than the brain. Today, medical science can keep beating the heart of a patient who is brain dead. But whatever the purpose medical science may have in doing this, the brain dead patient himself—or rather itself—has no purpose. The Constitution without the Declaration of Independence would be brain dead.

Indeed, it makes no more sense to distinguish between the Declaration and the Constitution than between the heart and the brain. Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg used the metaphor of organic life when he said that "our fathers" had brought forth "a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." It was an infant nation in 1776, but the conception and dedication formed a single process in which were embodied both a heart and a brain.

"We the people" have ordained and established the Constitution. But who are the people? Whence did their authority come? The answer is that they are the same "one people" who had earlier separated themselves from Great Britain and assumed "the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God" entitled them. And what are those laws? They are spelled out in the second paragraph, beginning "We hold these truths to be self-evident." The American people are then an incorporation of the species homo sapiens, each "endowed by his Creator" with certain unalienable rights. As Americans, we are bound not to violate the rights of innocent persons, whoever they are, and wherever they are, and that merely Americans—not Americans defending Revolution.

Unfortunately, the Constitution in 1787 formed "a more perfect union" than the Declaration of Independence, but it secured the rights of men in human persons recognized in the laws of the slave states. The Fathers are not to be faulted for this. They dealt with a problem they had inherited, and they dealt with it as best they could. Not show how—with the limit their disposal—they could better.

But their purpose, in conjunction with the institution of slavery inferred from the words of the Constitution alone. It can only be in the words of the Constitution, interpreted in the light of the Declaration of Independence, and above all, of the great proposition, "the created equal." For it is in this position that we infer the "the just powers of government" derived from "the consent of the governed." It is from this proposition, not only that slavery is abolished, but that all the people have an equal right to participate in government; and that there to vote ought not to be denied on the basis of race, creed or sex.

The principles of the Constitution and the principles of republicanism are nowhere stated in the Constitution. They must be sought in the Declaration of Independence.

The Constitution and the Declaration of Independence are subjected to their supreme test in the Civil War. The attempt by secession—and by secession to extend slavery—was a rejection of the great principle of human equality. That "the people, by the people, for the people" did not perish from the earth.

As I see it...

In a public service ad currently appearing in newspapers across the country, the American people have been told that "After the Declaration of Independence, our Founding Fathers wrote something even more important"—namely, the Constitution.

To speak of the Constitution as "more important" than the Declaration of Independence, however, is like speaking of the heart as more important than the brain. Today, medical science can keep beating the heart of a patient who is brain dead. But whatever the purpose medical science may have in doing this, the brain dead patient himself—or rather itself—has no purpose. The Constitution without the Declaration of Independence would be brain dead.

Indeed, it makes no more sense to distinguish between the Declaration and the Constitution than between the heart and the brain. Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg used the metaphor of organic life when he said that "our fathers" had brought forth "a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." It was an infant nation in 1776, but the conception and dedication formed a single process in which were embodied both a heart and a brain.

"We the people" have ordained and established the Constitution. But who are the people? Whence did their authority come? The answer is that they are the same "one people" who had earlier separated themselves from Great Britain and assumed "the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God" entitled them. And what are those laws? They are spelled out in the second paragraph, beginning "We hold these truths to be self-evident" The American people are then an incorporation of the species homo sapiens, each "endowed by his Creator" with certain unalienable rights. As Americans, we are bound not to violate the rights of innocent persons, whoever they are, and wherever they may be. For the creator has endowed all men—and not merely Americans—with the rights that Americans defended in their Revolution.

Unfortunately, the Constitution which in 1787 formed "a more perfect Union" was still highly imperfect. Not only did it better secure the rights of all free persons, but it secured the rights of property in human persons recognized by the laws of the slave states. The Founding Fathers are not to be faulted for their work. They dealt with a political reality they had inherited, and they dealt with it as best they could. No one today can show how—with the limited power at their disposal—they could have done better.

But their purpose, in coming to terms with the institution of slavery, cannot be inferred from the words of the Constitution alone. It can only be inferred from the words of the Constitution, as interpreted in the light of the Declaration of Independence, and above all in the light of the great proposition, "that all men are created equal." For it is from this proposition that we infer the requirement that "the just powers of government" are derived from "the consent of the governed." It is from this proposition that we infer, not only that all the governed have an equal right to participate in the government, and that therefore the right to vote ought not to be denied on account of race, creed or sex.

The principles of the Constitution—the principles of republican government—are nowhere stated in the Constitution. They must be sought in the Declaration of Independence.

The Constitution and the Union were subjected to their supreme test in our Civil War. The attempt by the South to secede—and by secession to perpetuate and extend slavery—was a consequence of the rejection of the great proposition of human equality. That "government of the people, by the people, for the people" did not perish from the earth, was due above all to the genius and statesmanship of Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln, on the eve of the Civil War, expressed the true relationship of the Declaration to the Constitution and the Union by a metaphor taken from the Bible, from the Book of Proverbs (25:11). "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver." Said Lincoln:

"The expression of that principle ('that all men are created equal') in our Declaration of Independence—was the word, fitly spoken, which has proved an apple of gold to us. The Union, and the Constitution, are the picture of silver subsequently framed around it. The picture was made, not to conceal or destroy the apple, but to adorn and preserve it. The picture was made for the apple—not the apple for the picture."

April 30 is deadline for moose hunt applications

Hopful moose hunters have until April 30 to apply for the 1988 permit drawing, according to the Maine Fish and Wildlife Department.

One thousand permits will be issued for the Oct. 17-22 hunt, which is limited to northern, western and eastern portions of the state.

Nine hundred Maine residents and 100 non-resident hunters will be selected to receive moose hunting permits at a public drawing in June.

In order to be in the drawing, mailed applications must be postmarked no later than April 30. Applications hand-delivered to the department's Augusta office must be received before 5 p.m., April 29.

Maine residents may obtain application blanks from license agents or from any office of the Fish and Wildlife Department.

Non-resident hunters who applied for the 1987 moose drawing, or who held a Maine 1987 big game license should have already received a 1988 moose application by direct mail.

Resident or non-resident applications may also be obtained by writing to: Moose Application, Maine Fish and Wildlife Dept. Station 41, Augusta, Maine 04333.

Non-refundable application fees are $5 for Maine residents, $10 for non-residents.

Applicants successful in the drawing must then acquire permits, which are $25 for residents, $200 for non-residents.

Under Maine's moose permit system, two hunters may hunt together on the same permit, and the pair may kill one moose.

In 1987, record numbers of Maine residents (52,919) and non-residents (14,807) applied for the drawing. Permit holders set another record during the hunting season by killing 891 moose—out of a permitted 1,000.
